

The Producer

What is it?

A producer helps and co-ordinates the organisational aspects of the production. Description. Being a producer is a little like project management.

Where do you start?

Before a show is approved, establish that it is available for amateur production on the required dates

What do you need to know?

The show title and the dates of the run. All the other things fall into place as a result of consultation with the Director

What skills would help?

Communications skills, administrative skills and planning skills

What help will I get?

Previous producers are always willing to help and asking questions of the Director and other team members will always be helpful.

Most challenging part?

Planning and ensuring that all taking part are SAC members

Most enjoyable part?

Seeing the plan come together to a successful conclusion

Why do it?

To keep the show on the road
